Information about Funding Crest Board

Funding Crest Board is an investment platform for automated earnings on crypto currency mining.

We specialize in mining crypto currencies using renewable energy sources: windmills and solar panels.

In November 2018, Coin Shares Research published a 4-volume study on the development of crypto currencies and the possible consequences of mining for humans in prospect of the next century.

It came up with a theory according to which the harm of crypto mining for the environment can be fatal if the energy source for it is not replaced over the next 25 years.

Funding Crest Board is a fully automated ecosystem that allows everyone to earn money by mining crypto currencies without compromising the environment. More than 80 mining farms have been opened with our assistance all over the world.

Our primary goal is to give everyone the opportunity to invest in crypto currency without harming our planet, and with benefits for the local communities. Part of the energy generated is provided for lighting sparsely populated areas adjacent to our farms.

What we do and what we offer

FCB specializes in crypto mining powered by renewable energy sources. These clean power sources make it possible to reduce the environmental damage from mining and minimize the electricity costs, which has a positive effect on maintaining the efficiency of our farms.

Funding Crest Board mines crypto in two ways:

Using windmills

Using solar panels

The difference between the methods lies only in the source of energy. They are equally effective for power generation for our farms. We attract private and corporate investment capital in order to accelerate the process of development and conditioning of new farms. This allows us to leverage our funds, serve the cause of protecting the planet and promoting safe mining worldwide.

In November 2018, CoinShares Research published a 4-volume study on the development of cryptocurrencies and the possible consequences of mining for humans in the future of the next century. It has put forward a theory according to which the harm of mining for the environment can be fatal if the energy source for it is not replaced over the next 25 years.

Cambridge University researchers have concluded that bitcoin mining consumes more electricity annually than the whole of Argentina: about 121.36 terawatt-hours of electricity per year. Experts believe that these figures are unlikely to fall in the near future.

In April, the Nature Communication journal predicted that by 2024, the greenhouse effect from mining farms located in China alone will exceed the greenhouse effect of the Philippines.

If you continue to use the traditional energy sources for mining, it will cause irreparable damage to our planet.

1

The company mission FCB

Making mining safe for the environment and reduce the carbon footprint. Crypto currency is getting more and more popular, and if we don't create a solid and secure base for its energy consumption, mining can become one of the most damaging processes on the planet in future.

2

Giving everyone the opportunity to invest in cryptocurrency mining without harm to our planet, and with benefits for local communities.
